

RQ1: Which types of knowledge and assumptions about people-on-the-move are inscribed in data models of national and transnational security infrastructures? What implications does this have for how organizations can search and match identity data?

Data models

Comparing data models

Categories of data

Data values

